

Share the Passion

"It seems only fair that the quality products we eat and drink provide decent livelihoods for the people who grow them".

Fairtrade means a fair price and decent working conditions for third world growers, no child labour and no exploitation.

It means that the people who grow the coffee, tea and other products we enjoy, can eat every day, their children can attend school, they can afford medical care when needed.

Instead of living in abject poverty, with illiteracy and high infant mortality, fairly paid workers can provide the basic necessities for their families.

A Fairtrade premium is paid to the whole community and is used for projects such as the provision of clean water, a dispensary etc.

There are many Fairtrade products now available in our local shops and supermarkets each with the Fairtrade Mark. Buying just one of these products regularly makes a real difference.

Share the passion for a fairer world and share the pleasure of delicious food through Fairtrade.
